INDIA WASHED ROBUSTA KAAPI ROYALE

India is a country full of color: bowls of spices in brick-red and other shades in vivid market streets, turquoise water hitting golden beaches, and verdant volcanic mountains pervading picturesque flora.

According to the legend, the saint Baba Budan stopped by at the seaport of Mokka in Yemen during his pilgrimage to Mecca in the early 17th century. He found a coffee tree, wrapped seven of the grains in his turban, and smuggled them to India. Once he arrived, he planted the beans in his garden near the evergreen mountains - and so the birthplace of coffee in India had arisen.

Idinjamala is a village in the Idukki District. It is part of the Western Ghats of the southern peninsula in India. Most people in this area make a living from farming.

The Marnacadu Social Service Society has established a wet mill in Idinjamala to support high-quality organic coffee production in the region. The Cooperative currently counts around 1200 farmers and particularly supports female workers.

Furthermore, MASS built up a seedling nursery to supply farmers with free Robusta seedlings. Idinjamala Robusta Kaapi Royal has a very intense, aromatic flavor that works nicely in a creamy espresso.
